

David M. Graham, Ph.D., LCMHCS, NCC (He/Him/His)
Director of Counseling Services
Davidson College

Thank you for allowing me this opportunity to introduce myself to you.

My name is David Graham. I identify as a cisgender man African American man, and My pronouns are He, His, and Him. I am the Director of Counseling Services in the Center for Student Health & Well-Being at Davidson College. I am responsible for providing leadership to a team of counselors by creating a working environment that promotes professionalism, trustworthiness, growth, compassion, and accountability. That results in students feeling supported by unconditional positive regard, empathetic understanding, and genuineness for students to explore and identify what is getting in the way of reaching their social, personal and academic goals in their lives and encourage and support them as they overcome. In addition to my Director of Counseling position at Davidson College. I am also an Adjunct Faculty member in the Department of Clinical Mental Health Counseling at Montreat College.

I earned my Ph.D. in counseling from the University of North Carolina at Charlotte and my Master of Science degree in Counselor Education from Syracuse University. I hold a licensed position in the State of North Carolina as a Clinical Mental Health Counselor Supervisor (LCMHCS). I am also a National Board-Certified Counselor and a certified Koru Mindfulness teacher.

I have worked with individuals, couples, and families from traditionally marginalized and oppressed identities on various concerns in counseling settings such as secondary schools, post-secondary schools, inpatient psychiatric treatment facilities, and outpatient community-based treatment centers.
